ANTH 1010.002 – Introduction to Anthropology (12466)
TuTh 3:30PM – 4:50PM Life A117 J. Johnson

Introduction to Anthropology. 3 hours. This course surveys and explains the cultural, linguistic and biological legacy of humankind, from antiquity to the present, using research tools of anthropology. Anthropology is both a scientific and humanistic endeavor that attempts to explain the differences and similarities between and among human groups. Anthropology studies where people come from, who they are, what they do, and why they do it.

Additional Notes: Satisfies the Social and Behavioral Sciences requirement of the University Core Curriculum.

Anthropology is both a scientific and humanistic endeavor that attempts to explain the differences and similarities between and among human groups. Anthropology studies where people come from, who they are, what they do, and why they do it.

Additional Notes: Satisfies the Social and Behavioral Sciences requirement of the University Core Curriculum.

Additional Notes: This course introduces key anthropological concepts and theories and applies them to: understanding the basics of what constitutes human culture; what shared characteristics human cultures have had across time and geographic space; what distinct qualities human cultures have; and the significance cultural diversity brings to the global landscape. To frame our survey of cultures, we will follow the geospatial archeological pattern of human migration around the globe, and then overlap a clear temporal context (i.e., archaeological pre-history; history; and contemporary society), so that we can better recognize the impacts of social power structures, like U.S. exceptionalism and global markets more generally, on shared hierarchical (mis)perceptions of cultures and societies around the globe.

ANTH 1100.001 – World Cultures (12470)
TuTh 9:30AM – 10:50AM Th 121 A. Bass

World Cultures. 3 hours. Introduction to the ways humans, past and present, have thrived in three different cultural worlds: tribal, imperial, and commercial, including the interaction between people and their environments and the role of social power in determining the forms that human cultures have taken through history into the present day. Focuses on capitalism as a cultural form and examines its impacts on societies and groups in our increasingly interdependent world.

Additional Notes: Satisfies the Component Area Option A requirement of the University Core Curriculum.

ANTH 1150.810 – World Cultures through Film (12469)

Internet Course
M. Nelson

World Cultures through Film. 3 hours. Through the use of ethnographic and documentary film, as well as lecture/discussion, this course illustrates the life ways, values and beliefs of human societies throughout the world. This survey includes examples from native North America, Latin America, Australia, Southeast Asia, Africa, East Asia, Melanesia, Polynesia, modern North America and Europe.

Additional Notes: This course uses the discipline of anthropology to answer the question: How should we view cultural difference? We will explore this question through the theoretical prism of anthropology and case studies provided by ethnographic films. Specifically, we will discuss (a) the problems with ethnocentric portrayals of different cultures in mainstream cinema (ethnocentrism); (b) how cultures see themselves (the emic perspective); (c) whether we can compare cultures to each other (etic perspective); and finally, (d) what happens when different societies interact with each other in a globalized world (globalization).

Additional Notes: Satisfies the Component Area Option A requirement of the University Core Curriculum.

ANTH 3101.810 – American Culture & Society (12472)
Internet Course  A. Bass

American Culture and Society. 3 hours. Culture, cultural diversity and multiculturalism constitute some of the most significant social issues in America today. Oriented around the core concept of culture and cultural groups, the course is designed to introduce the student to the basic concepts of culture and cultural diversity, and develop an awareness and appreciation for the full range of diversity in the American (U.S.) culture. Special time and attention will be devoted to the origins, development and consequences of the diversity that plays such a central role in the lives of people in this nation-state culture.

Additional Notes: Satisfies the Language, Philosophy and Culture requirement of the University Core Curriculum.

Additional Notes: Fundamental anthropological concepts and theoretical perspectives introduced to examine underlying and overarching social constructions that influence concepts like culture, identity, and institution as they currently exist in the American context. Various cultural and historical processes from which these concepts emerged entwined with how they have been transformed and are expressed in contemporary times through cultural domains, such as family, ethnic and racial diversity, economic power, and media/social media.

ANTH 3110.810 – Indigenous Peoples of North America (12773)
INTERNET COURSE A. Dunstan

Indigenous Peoples of North America. 3 hours. Examines the common stereotypes and media (mis) interpretations of Indigenous peoples and cultures in order to see beyond such one-dimensional portrayals of the American Indian. Introduction to a number of important themes in the history of Native American peoples over the last 500 years, including colonization and culture change. Students will gain a sense of the richness and diversity of Native American culture and experience.

Additional Notes: Satisfies the Language, Philosophy and Culture requirement of the University Core Curriculum.

ANTH 3130.001 – African American Anthropology (18281)
Tu 6:00PM – 8:50PM Env 115 K. Wren

African American Anthropology. 3 hours. This class develops a "double consciousness," of knowledge of African American (or Black) culture in the United States, the impact of Blacks on mainstream American culture, and vice versa. It covers the role of U.S. history, politics and economics as having shaped and been shaped by the presence of people of African descent on this continent and in this hemisphere, including historical roots, classic literature, religion, social structural aspects of African-American culture, oral traditions, identity, and representation.
ANTH 3220.001 – Mayan Culture (17092)
MoWeFr 9:00AM – 9:50AM  Wh 116  A. Re Cruz

Mayan Culture. 3 hours. Holistic understanding of the ancient Maya civilization, illuminating crucial economic, political, and ideological contemporary processes; exploring the analysis of intriguing symbolism embedded in ancient Maya culture; and understanding colonial and current Maya rebellions.

Additional Notes: Satisfies the Language, Philosophy and Culture requirement of the University Core Curriculum.

ANTH 3400.001 – Peoples & Cultures of Africa (13383)
MoWeFr 12:00PM – 12:50PM  CHEM 352  D. Henry

Peoples and Cultures of Africa. 3 hours. The diversity of African people and culture through a variety of sources - ethnographies, films, literature, and narratives. The reality of life in contemporary Africa as well as the way it has been portrayed by anthropologists, explorers, historians, and the media. Looks in detail at the continent's rich geography, environment, history, politics, religion, economics, and ethnicities, as well as the challenges that current events in Africa pose for the rest of the world.

ANTH 3500.001 – Cultures & Civilizations of the Middle East (12640)
Th 6:30PM – 9:20PM  CHEM 352  M. Sadri

Cultures and Civilizations of the Middle East. 3 hours. The prehistory, history, and contemporary situation of one of the most unusual areas of cultural diversity and human adaptation in the world. Special attention is given to the Colonial and religious history of the area that underlies much of its current problems. Its unique role in the developing world economic system will be addressed, as well as those current phenomenon which make it such a volatile area.

Additional Notes: Satisfies the Language, Philosophy and Culture requirement of the University Core Curriculum.

ANTH 4000.001 – Applied Anthropology (12763)
MoWeFri 11:00AM – 11:50AM  ENV 115  A. Bass

Applied Anthropology. 3 hours. Course is concerned with the development, theory, methods and approaches of applied anthropology. Through case materials, the course examines both the current and historical roles and contributions of the various subfields in the application of anthropology to the problems of culture. Special attention is directed at developing some understanding and appreciation of the problems and ethics involved in applied or practical activities and to developing the necessary skills and methods for assuming such a role as an applied anthropologist.

ANTH 4011.001 – Anthropological Field Methods (14653)

TuTh 12:30PM – 1:50PM WH 113  M. Nelson

Anthropological Field Methods. 3 hours. Course concentrates on the field methods of anthropology, in particular, the various data gathering techniques, methods of analysis and field techniques of "participant observation." In addition to acquiring the skills of the participant observation method, the student also gains an increased awareness, understanding and appreciation of the problems associated with conducting research in cultures other than their own. Special attention is devoted to the interactional aspects of dealing with people from a variety of cultural backgrounds. Prerequisite(s): ANTH 1010 or 2250 or consent of department.

Additional Notes: This course is geared towards students that have already taken ANTH 2300. In particular, this course is recommended for junior and senior Anthropology majors. If you are not an anthropology major you should email the instructor before registering for this course. The perspective of this class through Professor Nelson's instruction is very conceptual. It requires excellent attendance, participation, and an effort to be out of your comfort zone.

ANTH 4021.001 – Development of Anthropological Thought (12643)

TuTh 9:30AM – 10:50AM Env 115  J. Johnson

*Prerequisite(s): ANTH 2300 or consent of department.

Development of Anthropological Thought. 3 hours. Overview of the history of Anthropological thought from its origins to the contemporary schools of Anthropology, with emphasis on the scientific, intellectual and sociopolitical causes and consequences of changes in major conceptual orientations to man and culture.

Additional Notes: This course is recommended for junior and senior Anthropology majors.

ANTH 4200.001 – Health, Healing and Culture: Medical Anthropology (14067)

MoWeFri 10:00AM – 10:50AM Wh 316  T. Raby

Health, Healing and Culture: Medical Anthropology. 3 hours. Presents contemporary medical anthropology, with a focus on the biocultural basis of health and global sociocultural variations in illness and healing. Includes study of comparative health systems, political-economic and ethical issues in health and care, health professions, patients' views of illness, and cross-cultural definitions and understandings of disease, illness, and cure.
ANTH 4300.810 – Migrants & Refugees (12639)
Internet Course A. Bass

Migrants & Refugees. 3 hours. An anthropological understanding of "uprooted" and displaced social groups who leave their country and culture. Worldwide political, economic, and social issues are analyzed as are the processes of accommodation, adaptation and re-creation of their cultural systems in different socio-economic and political contexts. Beginning with general characteristics of the anthropological discussion on "displacement," the course then ventures into different models for the analysis and understanding of migration and refugee movements.

ANTH 4400.001 – Environmental Anthropology (12613)
TuTh 3:30PM – 4:50PM Wh 115 A. Dunstan

Environmental Anthropology. 3 hours. Major environmental questions, theories, problems, issues, and possible solutions illustrated by case studies from different cultures around the world. Environmental issues pertaining to land, sea and natural resources, food production systems, deforestation, population problems, poverty and environmental justice, natural hazards and risks, resource conflicts and warfare, over-fishing, economic development, mineral and oil extraction, landscapes, ecofeminism, and biodiversity conservation.

ANTH 4550.001 – Race, Ethnicity, & Identity (14172)
TuTh 11:00AM – 12:20PM Env 115 J. Carrington

Race, Ethnicity, and Identity. 3 hours. How race, ethnicity, and identity operate as categories of social inequality. Draws on critical perspectives of race and ethnicity to analyze how they work as overlapping categories of both inclusion and exclusion that are used to divide, rank, and discriminate. Discussion of possible ways to overturn the social injustices caused by ethnic and racial subordination as currently experienced in the U.S.

ANTH 4701.004 – Urban Anthropology (12772)
TuTh 2:00PM – 3:20PM Matt 102 A. Nelson

Topics in Sociocultural Anthropology. 3 hours. Selected topics of interest and significance in sociocultural anthropology. While this course is offered on a regular basis, particular topics are taught irregularly. Prerequisite(s): ANTH 1010 or ANTH 2300, or consent of department. May be repeated for credit as topics vary.

Additional Notes: Urban Anthropology. 3 hours. As more of the world’s population settles in cities, anthropologists have increasingly shifted their sites of study from rural to urban settings. Despite this new geographic focus, it remains debatable whether anthropological studies merely take place in urban settings or are of the city. Our goal in this class is to question how anthropological insights and methods might contribute to our understandings of urban phenomena. In order to do so, we will ask the following big questions: (1) What is a city? What sort of conditions produced this spatial category in different parts of the world throughout history? (2) How did the industrial revolution reshape the city and structure contemporary notions of spatial planning, social engineering and capitalist production? (3) What is the future of the city in the postmodern, post-industrial and post-national global era? Will future cities reduce or exacerbate social and economic inequality? (4) How have social and economic histories shaped the layout and structure of contemporary Denton and Dallas? Students will be asked to apply course material to their own ethnographic projects.

ANTH 4701.039 – Stuff & Things
MoWeFr 2:00PM – 2:50PM Cury 211 J. Johnson

Topics in Sociocultural Anthropology. 3 hours. Selected topics of interest and significance in sociocultural anthropology. While this course is offered on a regular basis, particular topics are taught irregularly. Prerequisite(s): ANTH 1010 or ANTH 2300, or consent of department. May be repeated for credit as topics vary.

Additional Notes: Stuff & Things. 3 hours. This course approaches human relationships in and with the material world from an anthropological perspective. Equipped with an array of theoretical perspectives and methodologies to analyze material culture ranging from art, architecture and adornment to tools, technology and transportation, students will study how people create, value, exchange, consume, contest, discard and dwell in a world of “stuff and things”.
