

Anthropology at the Museum

Sarah Ben-Ezra, Research Consultant and Intern: Perot Museum of Nature and Science

Current Research:

- Research Consultant
- Institute of Museum and Library Sciences Grant
- Cultural diversity training curriculum for volunteers and staff

Visitor Experience Pilot Study:

- Research Assistant/Intern
- Anthropological perspective into the visitor experience

I use Anthropology to...

- Make careful observations
- Be the “Middle Person”
- Solve problems
- Present information to Stakeholders

How to Leap from Undergraduate to Job:

- Networking
- Language skills
- Have Passion
- Be Confident

Anthropology Matters in Museums:

- Gain insight into how visitors ‘use’ the museum
- Understanding of Diversity, Identity, and Inclusion

Citations: Mayad, Becky, “INSTITUTE OF MUSEUM AND LIBRARY SERVICES (IMLS) AWARDS CROW COLLECTION OF ASIAN ART AND PEROT MUSEUM OF NATURE AND SCIENCE WITH PRESTIGIOUS TRAINING GRANTS”, Perot Museum of Nature and Science. December 21, 2017. accessed January 19, 2018. <https://www.perotmuseum.org/about-the-perot/newsroom/news-releases/2017/12/imls-grant.html>.
Rose Jones, Ph.D., Principle Investigator. “Ethnographic Roadmap for Visitors at the Perot Museum: A Pilot Study”. Perot Museum of Nature and Science. Dallas, Texas.